

The Emotionally Unintelligent Leader

The Emotionally Unintelligent Leader

The Emotionally Unintelligent Leader

The following competencies are those exhibited by leaders demonstrating behaviours that do not involve emotional intelligence.

These competencies are based on behaviours regularly observed in varying degrees in the workplace.

Be honest. How often do you exhibit these competencies?

Self-Awareness	Never	Now & Then	Often
Exhibiting erratic and unpredictable behaviour at work.	☐	☐	☐
Refusing to go on any training courses in the belief that leaders should know it all anyway.	☐	☐	☐
Believing that there is no need to make any personal change for whatever reason.	☐	☐	☐
Never admitting to any mistakes believing that failure is a sign of weakness.	☐	☐	☐
Taking and keeping control then commanding others to do things.	☐	☐	☐
Recruiting only people who share the same philosophies and ways of thinking.	☐	☐	☐
Promoting favourites or family members regardless of competence.	☐	☐	☐

The Emotionally Unintelligent Leader

Self-Regulation	Never	Now & Then	Often
Everything is urgent.	☐	☐	☐
Does all the talking.	☐	☐	☐
Is not approachable.	☐	☐	☐
Never available to talk.	☐	☐	☐
Giving in too easily – especially to more senior managers.	☐	☐	☐
Becoming autocratic under pressure.	☐	☐	☐
Humiliating employees in front of customers and co-workers.	☐	☐	☐
Telling employees that they shouldn't be so soft when they complain.	☐	☐	☐
Defending position rather than listening to or developing new ideas.	☐	☐	☐
Taking the credit for other peoples' ideas or work.	☐	☐	☐
Not dealing with poor performance or bad behaviour with the team.	☐	☐	☐
Editing reports and changing contributions that are controversial.	☐	☐	☐

The Emotionally Unintelligent Leader

Motivation	Never	Now & Then	Often
Committing to action but then not doing it.	☐	☐	☐
Discouraging interruptions that cause hassle.	☐	☐	☐
Rewarding favourite employees as the best way to motivate the rest of the team.	☐	☐	☐
Being unpleasant to people in the belief that it is someone else's responsibility to be nice to them.	☐	☐	☐
Giving responsibility and taking it back if the decision is considered to be "not right".	☐	☐	☐
Leaving work before everyone else and returning on occasions to see who else has left early.	☐	☐	☐
Finding solutions and making decisions without getting others involved.	☐	☐	☐
Having difficulty making decisions.	☐	☐	☐
Focusing on short-terms goals and not having a long term focus.	☐	☐	☐
Focusing on processes rather than results.	☐	☐	☐

The Emotionally Unintelligent Leader

Empathy	Never	Now & Then	Often
Insensitive to individuals' needs.	☐	☐	☐
Provoking or goading employees to behave in certain ways.	☐	☐	☐
Continually finding fault and criticising employees' work.	☐	☐	☐
Continually checking up on employees and checking their work.	☐	☐	☐
Telling one thing to one person and something else to another.	☐	☐	☐
Sharing confidential information inappropriately.	☐	☐	☐
Demanding employees work over contracted hours on a regular basis.	☐	☐	☐
Dumping on others without thinking of their workload.	☐	☐	☐
Delegating a project and then asking for updates more frequently than originally agreed.	☐	☐	☐
Talking about other employees' faults and failures to other employees.	☐	☐	☐
Not acknowledging any suggestions received to improve working practices.	☐	☐	☐
Forcing employees to buy equipment needed to perform their work.	☐	☐	☐

The Emotionally Unintelligent Leader

Empathy	Never	Now & Then	Often
Referring to new cars or exotic holidays as a reason for not reviewing salary.	☐	☐	☐
Frequently changing the way people are rewarded and recognised thus causing confusion.	☐	☐	☐
Keeping job applicants waiting before an interview to sort out those that are really committed.	☐	☐	☐

The Emotionally Unintelligent Leader

Social Skills	Never	Now & Then	Often
Failing to communicate the organisation's vision and objectives.	☐	☐	☐
Frequently changing strategy without communicating the changes to employees.	☐	☐	☐
Having one rule for managers and another for staff.	☐	☐	☐
Not getting to know staff as people in the belief that they'll only take advantage.	☐	☐	☐
Shouting at staff in the belief that it is the only thing that they understand.	☐	☐	☐
Not thanking or praising employees if they do something well.	☐	☐	☐
Treating training courses as a scarce benefit and part of a reward scheme.	☐	☐	☐
Spending a proportion of the training budget on motivational speakers from overseas.	☐	☐	☐
Not developing employees through skills training.	☐	☐	☐
Not encouraging the team to explore avenues which are not aligned with their own views.	☐	☐	☐
Teaching employees to tell customers that they can't get what they want as "its company policy".	☐	☐	☐

The Emotionally Unintelligent Leader

1. Which of these competencies do you demonstrate a lot in your work?
(up to 250 words)

The Emotionally Unintelligent Leader

2. What can you deduce from this? (up to 250 words)

The Emotionally Unintelligent Leader

3. What is the opposite of these competencies? (up to 250 words)

The Emotionally Unintelligent Leader

4. What could prevent you from being an emotionally intelligent leader? (up to 250 words)

The Emotionally Unintelligent Leader

: +44 (0) 161 244 8884

: info@ei4change.com

: ei4change.com